Asia powering the global economy

Asia's Importance in the World Economy is Growing

Asia is projected to contribute roughly 49% of global growth by 2024

Asia is set to remain the world's biggest contributor to global GDP. The region's GDP has jumped from $33 trillion in 2010 to $68 trillion in 2020. Fuelled by the opportunities in markets such as China, India and throughout ASEAN, Asia is expected to power the global economy in the 21st century.

ASEAN: Key destination for FDI in Asia

The ASEAN region is a growing market and will play an increasingly important role in the global economy in the years ahead. Foreign direct investments into ASEAN rose to a record level of US$156 billion in 2019, up from US$41 billion a decade ago. This reflects ASEAN's strong growth opportunities and its attractiveness.

Key drivers attracting FDI in ASEAN

ASEAN is blessed with a young and growing population. With a population of more than 600 million and a combined GDP of US$2.8 trillion, ASEAN is set to become the world's fourth largest market after the EU, US and China by 2030. The region's favourable demographics, rising middle class and strong economic growth has turned ASEAN into one of the top destinations for trade and investment.

Emerging opportunities

Digital Economy

By 2030, approximately 575 million, or roughly 80% of the ASEAN population, will be connected to the internet, with more consumers in the region purchasing their goods and services online¹.

“Mass Affluent” Consumers

By 2030, the “Mass Affluent” in ASEAN is projected to grow from 57 million to 137 million. They will account for 21 per cent of the region's combined population by 2030².

Industry 4.0

Increased productivity from adopting Industry 4.0 technologies could unleash an additional US$220 billion – US$625 billion in annual economic impact in ASEAN by 2030³.

Smart Cities

More than 90 million people are expected to urbanise by 2030, and “middleweight” cities of between 200,000 and 2 million residents are forecast to drive 40% of the region's growth⁴.
